1. Michael, tell us about the situation and conditions you faced when you were first called to pastor All Saints.
2. Give us some background on the Karen people and Ye Win. How did God bring them to Smyrna?
3. Tell us how they were first received by the church.
4. What were some of the cultural barriers that needed to be addressed and overcome?
5. You decided to turn the land surrounding the church into a farm. Tell us how God led you to do that.
6. What advice would you give the person who knows God is calling them to do something but is struggling with doubt or inadequacy?
7. Tell us some of the things you learned from the Karen people.
8. What did you learn about hospitality and loving others in Jesus' name?
9. What advice can you give for the person listening who wants to step out in faith and embrace those from other backgrounds? How can they start?
10. (For Michael or Jeanette) There has been a lot of conversation around the world about welcoming refugees, fear of danger, and the importance of safety. What does God call us to do when He brings a stranger to our doorstep?
11. Your story is not just told in this book—it's also become a feature film. Tell us how God opened doors for you to share this story.
12. Jeanette, you've partnered with many people to help tell their stories. What made this partnership with Michael appealing?
13. (For Jeanette) How did you set out gathering the information and putting together the story that would become All Saints?
