Learn How to Delight in Differences, Love through Disagreements, and Live with Discomfort

Being human is hard.

Being in relationships with other humans is even harder. But loving one another well is possible.

In Come Sit with Me, more than two dozen (in)courage writers help you navigate tough relational tensions by revealing their own hard-fought, grace-filled learning moments. They show you how to:

- delight in your differences
- honor and value others even when you disagree
- connect before you correct
- trust that God is working even when people disappoint you

Whether readers are in the middle of a conflict without resolution or wondering how to enter into a friend's pain, this book will serve as the guide they need to move through challenges and grow closer to God.

And it starts by inviting God and others to simply "come sit with me."

"This book left me feeling so encouraged, and it infused me with practical suggestions and ideas on how to be a better friend to others. It is a much-needed message in this hurting, lonely world!" --Crystal Paine, New York Times bestselling author, podcaster, and founder of MoneySavingMom.com

About the Authors

Founded by DaySpring, (in)courage is an online community of women who seek Jesus together. Each weekday one of their thirty writers shares what's going on in her everyday life and how God's right in the middle of it all. They bring their unique experiences--joys and struggles equally--so that you can feel less alone and be empowered by the hope Jesus gives. Learn more at incourage.me.

A few of the authors include: Grace P. Cho, Lucretia Berry, Rachel Marie Kang, Anjuli Pascal, Bonnie Gray, Holley Gerth, Renee Swope, and Becky Keife.

PRAISE for Come Sit with Me

"Not giving up on ourselves or each other is increasingly crucial in a culture weathering hard things. I love the voices of (in)courage in this book, representing real-life issues and helping us find strength in our shared hope in Jesus." Lisa Whittle, bestselling author, Bible teacher, and podcast host

"Our lives can often seem so disconnected. What I love about Come Sit with Me is it reminds us that God intends for our worlds to collide--both lovingly and distinctively. Our differences, our doubts, and our desires are actually designed to lead us individually and collectively into our destiny. A must-read for all who desire heaven on earth." Marshawn Evans Daniels, Godfidence® coach, TV personality, reinvention strategist for women, and founder of SheProfits.com

"Encouraging, inspirational, and practical--these are the first three words that come to mind as I read Come Sit with Me. If ever there was a time we needed a book on loving through disagreements, living with discomfort, and delighting in our differences, it's now. This book is a friend as well as a gentle guide for those of us neck-deep in these struggles. Hearing the stories of others doesn't solve all our problems, but the wisdom of those who've been where we are helps. And the wisdom of those who point us back to Jesus at every twist and bend? Well, that is one way God redeems those heartbreak moments. We all struggle. I'm grateful for the storytellers who allow God to use their suffering to minister to others. I needed this book. My guess is you need it too." Kris Camealy, author of Everything Is Yours and founder of Refine {the retreat}

"Come Sit with Me is a beautifully written collection of stories covering relevant and challenging scenarios we face today. A wide range of women from different life stages, experiences, and ethnic backgrounds share from their personal lives in helpful and hope-filled ways. Honest, relatable, and practical, the pages in this book contain Scripture-based principles and perspective to help readers navigate differences, disagreements, and discomfort." Vivian Mabuni, speaker, podcast host, founder of Someday Is Here, and author of Open Hands, Willing Heart
