1. How does it feel being a mother of a man who did this?
2. How did and do you continue to hold your family together?
3. Where did you find the strength to carry on, in your darkest moments?
4. In the book, you describe the life-saving beauty of deep friendship. What did and does the friendship with the Amish mean to you? How close were you with the Amish before the tragedy?
5. Tell me about the power of forgiveness—not only for the one who is forgiven, but also for the one who forgives. What's your personal testimony of that?
6. Tell me about the power of thanksgiving—to always try to find something to be thankful for, rather than get hung-up on the things we wish were different. How did that play out in your story?
7. What is the difference between moving on and moving forward?
8. How do you feel now that the book is finished? Was it therapeutic to collect all these little bits and pieces into one story?
9. When it's all said and done, what do you hope this book accomplishes?
10. What advice would you give to somebody going through a similarly difficult life circumstance?
