1. Tell us a little bit about your background, specifically the I Choose Brave blog and community that you started, and how you came to write this book.
2. Godly fear can be a difficult thing for some people to understand, and yet it is repeated throughout Scripture. Why do you think so many Christians struggle to comprehend this type of fear?
3. What was your process like when you started digging into Scripture and focusing on the moments when the fear of God was present?
4. Just as having a fear of the dark causes us to react, so does fearing God. What is our soul's reaction when we truly fear God?
5. You mention that I Choose Brave really means to pursue holy courage. How do we come to have holy courage? What does a life of holy courage look like?
6. Two of the verses you mention in your book are when Moses goes to inspect the burning bush and when Joshua walks into the Holy Land. Tell us more about these passages and how they display godly fear.
7. You open up about your experience with a high-risk pregnancy and ultimately the stillbirth of your first daughter. Did this experience of very real fear change your understanding of godly fear or holy courage?
8. How can our lives be transformed by the pursuit of holy courage? How will this change our faith?
9. What is your prayer for the women who will pick up this book?
10. Where can our audience go to connect with you and purchase a copy of I Choose Brave?
