1. We would love to hear more about your background in ministry and what led you to writing this book, Slaying the Giant of Fear.
2. So often God does call us to take on impossible tasks. Do we need to defeat fear in order to accomplish what God has set out for us?
3. Does fear have any control over our faith? In other words, if we experience daily fear, does that make us any less faithful?
4. You talk in depth about the battle between David and Goliath in this book. Obviously, David showed up to this battle with his physical weapons being a few rocks. Tell us about some of the spiritual weapons David had.
5. What spiritual weapons do you use when faced with the giant of fear?
6. Your moment of breakthrough in this book may seem to come from a moment of weakness when you cried out, “I’m scared, Abba.” Talk to us about the strength that came from this cry and from our own cries.
7. How does breaking the barrier of fear in our lives bring us to a greater union with Christ? What transformation can we expect in our faith?
8. What hope can you offer to the listener who has been waiting for breakthrough for years and can’t seem to find their roar?
9. What is your prayer for the men and women who read this book?
10. Where can our audience go to connect with you and purchase a copy of Slaying the Giant of Fear?
